

TERRORIST KILLS CZAR'S HANGMAN

FIFTH OF EMPEROR'S ADVISERS, MARKED FOR DEATH, IS SHOT BY ASSASSIN.

MURDERER'S MAD FLIGHT

Ended Only When His Ammunition Was Exhausted—Policeman Is Slain and Boy Hurt—Dead Official Generally Hated

St. Petersburg, Jan. 10.—Lieutenant General Vladimir Pavloff, military procurator and one of the most generally hated of the czar's advisers, was assassinated this morning while walking in the garden of the Chief Military court building. The assassin who was undoubtedly an agent of the Terrorist organization, which it is reported has sentenced the czar and several of his ministers to death, was captured after a chase in which he killed a policeman and wounded a small boy.

The same careful preparation was made to make sure that the killing of General Pavloff that has marked the assassination of four of the czar's other advisers since last August, when the Terrorist organization is said to have made up its list of officials to be slain.

Assassin Disguised as Clerk.

Disguised as a military clerk, the assassin gained admission to the court under the pretense of submitting a report to the military procurator. As he wore a uniform the assassin attracted little attention. He approached the unsuspecting general within arm's length, drew an automatic revolver, and discharged the whole seven bullets into Pavloff's body. Every shot was well aimed and General Pavloff was instantly killed, the bullets tearing gaping wounds in his chest. From the appearance of the wounds it was evident that the steel jacketed bullets were flattened at the ends in order that they might inflict more deadly wounds.

Hastily slipping another "clip" of cartridges into his revolver and drawing a second weapon, the assassin ran across the garden to the carriage entrance, threatened the porter with his pistols and dashed past the Imperial opera house, with a crowd of thirty house porters and attendants in close pursuit.

Fugitive Kills Policeman.

A policeman stationed in front of the opera house attempted to seize the assassin but was shot down by the latter, who turned and opened fire on his pursuers, wounding a boy. The assassin then resumed his flight through the streets, firing at the police officers and house porters who attempted to bar his way. When his ammunition became exhausted he was intercepted and captured at Lantern Lane.

The entire career of General Pavloff was in the judicial department of the army. After serving several years as a military judge he was appointed judge advocate general of the war ministry and later procurator of the supreme military court.

General Pavloff sprang into national prominence when he was delegated by War Minister Rodiger to answer the interpellations of the government in the lower house of parliament in regard to courts-martial and executions in the Baltic provinces and in Poland.

Is Driven Out of Parliament.

The military procurator justified these executions with such cold bloodedness and disregard of the sentiments of the members that it aroused the indignation of almost the entire house, and he was driven from the rostrum with cries of "murder" and "assassin!" When the general next appeared in the house he was not allowed to speak, and was threatened with personal violence.

The allegation has been made that General Pavloff delayed the reprieve of a number of the Baltic mutineers who had been convicted by drumhead court-martial until the men were executed.

The murdered general was a large land owner. Vice Admiral Doubassoff, former governor general of Moscow, and at present a member of the council of empire, has received notification that another attempt upon his life will be made.

Terrorists Keep Word.

Several months ago it was announced in dispatches from Europe that the Terrorists in Russia placed on a list for assassination the names of all the czar's principal ministers and guardians. Each was to be killed getting closer and closer to Nicholas, until at last, if he refused reforms to the people, he also would be assassinated. So far the Terrorists have kept their word. Since August these have been killed:

NARROWLY AVERT FIGHT IN HOUSE

GAINES MAKES TWO RUSHES AT MAHON—LATTER PASSES THE "LIE."

CLASPED HANDS LATER

Amid Applause of Other Members—Stormy Scene Follows Charge Made by Gentleman From Tennessee Over Bill.

Washington, Jan. 10.—In the house today there was a scene of a threatened personal encounter between Gaines, of Tennessee, and Mahon, of Pennsylvania, growing out of the Gaines bill to "dock" members for chronic absence.

The encounter happened when Gaines was making a speech on his bill and being twitted by both sides to his evident embarrassment, he charged Mahon with being absent 95 per cent of the time.

Mahon leaped to his feet and thundered: "The man who charges me with being away from this house 95 per cent of the time tells an untruth."

Second Lie; Second Attack.

Then Mann, of Illinois, who was in the chair, ordered both to their seats, Mahon obeying, while Gaines stood shaking fist and head at the Pennsylvania man. When order was restored, Mahon again rose and said: "The charge of the gentleman from Tennessee that I'm away from this house 95 per cent of the time, is a deliberate falsehood. Gaines again rushed toward the gentleman from Pennsylvania (insisting that no man could call him a liar without personal chastisement).

Members Applaud Reconciliation.

The rush of Gaines brought a dozen members before the speaker's desk. Resisting vigorously Gaines was borne back to his seat. Lacey, of Iowa, read the statute relating to "docking" of the members' pay. He was followed by several others, friends of Gaines and Mahon brought about a reconciliation and the men clasped hands amid loud applause.

The house passed the army appropriation bill and began the consideration of the fortifications bill. Several amendments were made to the army bill. The fortifications bill was taken up but no progress was made, the time being consumed by the statements of Smith, of Iowa, in charge of the budget; Fitzgerald, of New York, who represents the minority in the appropriations committee, and by Gaines, of Tennessee, in his speech on "docking" bill and others on the same question.

Pass Railway Employees Bill.

After more than five hours of lively debate on limiting the hours of service of railway employees, the senate today passed a substitute for the pending bill of which La Follette was the author as he was the original. The substitute limits the time to 16 consecutive hours' service, followed by 10 hours' rest. There was but one negative vote, Poite, of Alabama.

Tilman gave notice that he would address the senate Saturday on the Brownsville affair. Foraker announced that he would endeavor to get a vote on the investigation resolution on that day.

FEAR

That the Missing Steamship Ponce Is Lost Is Growing—Company Holds Out Faint Ray of Hope.

New York, Jan. 10.—The steamship Ponce is still missing and the belief that the vessel's delay is due to some mechanical accident is giving way to fear that it has been lost. The strong hope to which officers of the company cling is the non-arrival of the steamer Maracas from Trinidad, now four days behind. The Maracas' ordinary course is the same as that of the Ponce and it is hoped that she has fallen in with the probably disabled Porto Rican vessel.

COMMISSION TO GUARD HARRIMAN

WRIT SOUGHT TO KEEP HIM, ROGERS AND FRICK FROM ESCAPING TESTIMONY.

MERGER HURT ST. PAUL

Declares Road's Traffic Manager—Says Competition Would Exist if All Lines Were Under One Management.

Chicago, Jan. 10.—The attorneys for the government, conducting the investigation into the management of the Harriman lines, announced today that they had determined to take steps to prevent E. H. Harriman, Henry C. Frick and H. H. Rogers from leaving the jurisdiction of the Interstate Commerce Commission. In order to prevent this, action will be taken to cause the issuance of writs of ne exeat, by authority of which they will be compelled to remain within the jurisdiction of the commission.

James H. Hiland, traffic manager of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, was the first witness today. He said that the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific were formerly competitors for Pacific coast business.

Mr. Hiland was asked if competition between railroads would still exist if all the railroads in the country were brought under one management.

He replied that in all probability competition in such a case would resolve itself into a question of personal rivalry between the separate managements of the railroads. On the whole, he considered the edge would be taken off the competition and it would, all things considered, not be as keen as under individual ownership.

Mr. Hiland declared that since the consolidation of the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific his road had experienced greater difficulty in handling certain classes of freight.

On cross examination he was asked by John G. Milburn, attorney for Mr. Harriman, if the consolidation itself was the cause of the increased difficulty. He replied very emphatically: "Yes, sir."

"How does it work against your line?"

"The greater part of the business I have mentioned goes by the Southern Pacific, and is, I presume, deflected in that direction in order to make a longer haul than would be the case if it went by the Union Pacific."

Mr. Munroe declared that he did not consider the Illinois Central-Southern Pacific route, via New Orleans to San Francisco, as a competitor of the Union Pacific-Southern Pacific at El Paso.

At the conclusion of Mr. Munroe's evidence the hearing was adjourned to Jan. 18 at Seattle.

BEG FOR TROOPS AT HARGIS TRIAL

ATTEMPT TO ASSASSINATE THE PRISONER AND JACKSON, KY. JUDGE FEARED—ARMED MEN FILL TOWN.

Lexington, Ky., Jan. 10.—Fearing for the life of himself and Judge James Hargis, who is on trial at Jackson charged with the murder of Dr. D. B. Cox four years ago, Special Judge William Carnes, trying the case, has asked Gov. Beckham to send a battalion of state troops to Jackson and have them remain on guard during the trial. Judge Carnes has information that there will be an attempt made to take the life of Judge Hargis and that he is in constant fear of assassination.

Reports received here say Jackson citizens there are begging for troops. They believe the town will be the scene of carnage if troops are not brought in. Five hundred armed men are now in Jackson.

Adjutant General Henry Lawrence and State Inspector and Examiner Hines have been sent from Frankfort by the governor to investigate the necessity of sending troops.

Shoe Etiquette in India.

Indians take off their shoes when there is a farash upon which they have to squat. The mud from the shoes would spoil the sheet. A native visitor to a European should on no account draw his shoes, there being no farash. If any deputy magistrate does so, he is a cringing slave, imitating the habits of humbles and showing that he is as humble as Ram Haklah before the sahib. If his socks are torn and the toes are out, it is a tribute insult to the sahib.—Lahore Tribune.

Their Only Value.

"I've got at least six complete novels," said Woodby Rifer, "which I have written from time to time, and have never shown to a publisher. I've had them several years, and I really believe they're growing more valuable every year." "I wouldn't be surprised," remarked Critick. "The price of paper is steadily advancing."

Said It Himself.

"I see the publishers of your latest novel advertise it as a splendid book to take along when one is going on a railway journey." "Yes, if one has it one cannot complain of being unable to sleep on the cars. Now, confound you, perhaps you'll admit that I have a sense of humor."

MANY CONSUMED IN MOLTEN STEEL

FIFTEEN OR TWENTY MEN MISSING AS RESULT OF EXPLOSION OF FURNACE.

ALL TRACE DESTROYED

And Total Number of Victims May Never Be Known—Injured in Pitiful Condition—Bodies Horribly Disfigured.

Pittsburg, Jan. 10.—Partial investigation to ascertain the number of fatalities at the Jones and Laughlin Steel works last night when an accumulation of gas burst the base of a large furnace and showered molten metal over forty men, were completed tonight.

It shows that bodies of twelve, horribly mutilated, have been recovered; from fifteen to twenty missing, it being generally believed that their bodies were consumed by hot metal and ten in hospitals, four of whom are expected to die.

It is doubtful whether the number of killed will ever be known. Fifteen of the men are known to have been caught in the fiery metal which flowed over their bodies to a depth of six feet. No trace of them it is said will ever be found.

Many Pitifully Injured.

Of the bodies now in the morgue many are minus arms, legs and heads, while others are burned and twisted beyond all recognition.

The condition of the injured is pitiful. A number have their eyes burned out and others are so badly injured that amputation of arms and legs is necessary.

W. J. Jones, vice president of the company, issued the following statement tonight:

"We have been unable to determine what caused the explosion. A rigid investigation has been instituted but it will be two or three days before we are able to know the cause, if there. The entire unfortunate affair is a great mystery to all the officials."

Survivor Tells Story.

"It was awful," said George Knox, the only man believed to have escaped uninjured. "There were thirty-five of us working, never thinking of an explosion. Suddenly there was a terrific roar and immediately I started to run. Molten metal was thrown every place. Streams of it were running in all directions. Thank God I reached a place of safety, and got a minute too soon."

"I don't know what happened to the other men. I did not see any of them run, following the explosion. If they did not run quick and fast all are buried under six feet of molten iron." Charles Bennett, a yard brakeman, who was running under the furnace on a freight train when the explosion occurred gave a graphic description of the disaster.

Saw Men Cremated.

"Our train was right near the furnace," said Bennett. "When the metal poured out of the furnace over the ground I saw the men running for a place of safety. To the right of the furnace I saw a party of ten men, all of them running wildly and their clothes a mass of flames."

"Apparently some of them had been injured when the explosion occurred, and several of them tripped and fell. The hot metal ran over the poor men in moment. Just at this time a second explosion occurred and I looked toward the furnace. In a moment I again looked to the right of the furnace for the men, but I could not see any of them and I believe all of them were burned to death."

DEATH

Of the Late Shah Not Attended By Any Show of Grief—Government Offices and College Open.

Teheran, Jan. 10.—The general public did not become aware of the death of the Shah until this afternoon. No shops have been closed and all the government offices are open. ROOSEVELT INTO INSURANCE MIX

WRITES LETTER URGING THAT SALARIES OF OFFICIALS BE NOT LIMITED.

INQUIRY INTO HIS ACTION

May Be Ordered By Congress—Look- ed Upon as Plan to Influence Legislation in Favor of His Friend, Paul Morton.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 10.—A sensation in congress, based on a letter attributed to President Roosevelt, in which state legislatures are urged not to pass laws limiting the salaries of life insurance officials, is brewing. Copies of the letter have reached members of the house. A resolution will be introduced this week calling on the president to officially acknowledge the letter and to send the correspondence involved to the house.

At a time when "executive usurpation" is laid at the president's door, this letter is to be made the basis of a charge of executive interference in state matters. Also congressmen are inclined to see a connection between the president's well known friendship for Paul Morton, president of the Equitable, and a move to prevent the limitation of salaries.

President Writes Letter.

The letter is addressed to Thomas F. Drake, superintendent of insurance for the District of Columbia, and reads:

"The White House, Washington, Nov. 28.—My Dear Mr. Drake: Will you read the enclosed memorandum? I assume that you will not indorse any proposal that the legislatures shall fix the salaries to be paid officials of insurance companies. I should deem such action of questionable validity in law and unquestionably grossly improper, whether the law would or would not permit it. I can hardly suppose that there is a serious endeavor to take such action. Sincerely yours—

"THEODORE ROOSEVELT."

The insurance commissioners of the states met last summer and appointed a committee of fifteen to draft reformatory insurance bills, to be passed before the legislatures of the various states. Among the propositions adopted by the committee of fifteen was one limiting salaries to $50,000 a year.

Letter is "Confidential."

The above letter was sent out by Mr. Drake to each of the committee of fifteen. It was sent with the approval of the president and was accompanied by a letter from Superintendent Drake. Mr. Drake's letter follows:

"Conditioned upon your treating it confidentially, I have received the consent of President Roosevelt to send you a copy of his letter of the 28th, addressed to me, which was accompanied by the original memorandum upon the question of the right of the legislatures to regulate companies. The letter referred to was also accompanied by a copy of a decision of the Court of Appeals of Texas bearing upon the same subject."

"I inclose copies of both documents. I think, too, in view of the decision with which you are now made familiar that the resolution adopted by the committee of fifteen at the meeting in Chicago on the 17th, restricting the salaries of presidents of life insurance companies to $50,000 per year, would be a strike from the list of uniform legislative bills that are being prepared for the purpose of submitting them to congress through the president and through the insurance commissioners to the forty-one state legislatures which assemble in 1907."

For Unlimited Salaries.

"Being confronted with such a decision from the highest tribunal of a state it seems to me, that advocating such a feature in uniform legislation would arouse unnecessary discussion in congress and in state legislatures, and possibly would cause the defeat of all the remedial measures proposed. I would suggest, therefore, that you communicate with the Hon. Thomas F. Drake, St. Paul, Minn., chairman of the committee of fifteen, requesting that the salary restriction in the prospective bills referred to be left out altogether. Please let me hear from you on the subject. Yours respectfully—

"THOMAS F. DRAKE."

SMITH TO SUCCEED ALGER.

Lansing, Mich., Jan. 10.—Congressman William Alden Smith, of Grand Rapids, was tonight nominated to succeed United States Senator R. A. Alger. As there are only a half dozen Democrats in the state legislature tonight's nomination by the Republicans caucus is equivalent to election.
